MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

September 2017

I hope everyone is enjoying the last remnant of summer and looking forward to autumn – my favorite season. Why is fall my favorite time of year? Our Symposium!

You can read all the particulars in this very newsletter, so I won’t bother you with them. Instead, let me tell you a few reasons why I’m definitely going.

1. Because we have a great chapter with great members. And the thing I enjoy most is conversing with the attendees. I always meet some nice people, and it’s nice to converse with people who work on proposals for a living.
2. Alan Minnick will almost certainly buy me a beer.
3. There are always some great sessions, and this year is no exception. I can guarantee I’ll go home with some new ideas and be recharged to apply best practices.
4. I dig Chicago.
5. Our chapter leaders are some of the nicest people this side of the Mississippi. Technically, some of them live on the other side, but they are on this side while at the Symposium.
6. It’s generally a fun and educational time.

Bruce Farrell
Chapter President

I sometimes get asked what I think about Prezi. My answer usually goes something like, "Well, I think it's a powerful app that can do some pretty interesting things. But I think most people don't use it very well."

But PowerPoint is so tired/old/dated/over," usually follows.

To which I reply, "Horse hockey." PowerPoint isn't tired/old/dated/over. The way people usually use it absolutely is.

I would say the same is true of most Prezis I've seen. That is, most Prezi frames suffer from the same problems I see in all presentations. Too many words, lots of lists, images thrown on as an afterthought, etc. We've seen it all before. Worse, if Prezi isn't handled carefully, the transitions from frame to frame can, a). Get distracting, or b). Make your audience dizzy. Sadly, Prezi is not really the answer because it can be misused just as easily as PowerPoint.

Why is this? Because building truly powerful presentations requires a paradigm shift. It takes start to finish storyboarding, a willingness to be ruthless about eliminating slide elements, and fierce commitment to align your slides with your message and speaking style. This isn't easy, so most people settle for tweaking what they have always done and real change escapes them.

No, applications are not the problem. It's the presenters who put too much on the screen and expect you to read along. Don't tell me PowerPoint is dead. Don't tell me Prezi is the answer (or amateur). Look at the person in front of the screen.

Like Prezi (and Apple's Keynote), PowerPoint is a powerful app capable of some interesting and engaging things. Unfortunately, most people don’t use it to do anything compelling. They use it as a script and drop a few images in to make things “interesting.” And as we all know, standing in front of slide after slide (after slide) of this is tired and old and dated, but sadly, not quite over. Some people don’t understand the problem. Some understand it but don’t know how to change. And some know better but are unwilling to put in the time and effort necessary to build truly engaging presentations.
UPCOMING WEBINARS

Upcoming Monthly Webinars:

September 20, 2017 | 10:00 am CST – 11:00 am CST
APMP Certification – Make it Work for You | Presented by Charlie Divine

APMP Certification is the global standard for demonstrating your proposal management competency. This presentation will provide members with an overview of the certification program and benefits they can expect to receive. Requirements will be covered, and tips will be provided on how to approach the requirements. Participants will come away with an understanding of how Certification will help them achieve their career goals and improve the capabilities of their organization. This is a timely presentation for those who would like to obtain their Foundation accreditation as we will be offering this at our Symposium in October.

Creativity on Demand: Infuse Creativity into Bid Teams to Create Better Solutions, Clearer Strategies, and Happier Clients | Presented by Colleen Jolly

Description: Are you stuck doing the same things over and over again? Watching your team disengage or worse, nod off at meetings? Have trouble coming up with new and innovative solutions to motivate yourself, your team or even your clients? You’re not alone. Learn strategies to harness your creative spark and build your creative confidence. Then learn how to infuse your team with the same inspired energy to produce innovative, quality bid material and successful, productive meetings. Develop practical tactics to maintain a creative process in spite of pressing deadlines and stressful situations that you can use in your next meeting or strategy session. We will explore interactive, creativity drills designed to shake up thinking patterns and provide breakthrough insights to common management and team-building problems.

Colleen Jolly, CPP APMP Fellow, an 18+ year proposal veteran, manages a global professional proposal graphic company – 24 Hour Company. Colleen is very active in the Association of Proposal Management Professionals (APMP) and recently served as CEO of the international board, former Layout Editor for the APMP Journal, and former Secretary of her local chapter. She was named the youngest APMP Fellow, the industry’s highest honor, in 2010 and additionally became the youngest certified Professional that same year. She is a frequent worldwide speaker and writer on creative and general business topics, and has spoken to groups around the world. Additionally she has been featured in Northern Virginia Magazine’s “Top 10 (Entrepreneurs) Under 20, Making their Mark” in 2010 and most recently has been honored in the inaugural class of APMP “40 Under 40” for professionals who have already made a “noticeable impact on the profession.”

New Member Webinars:

September 19, 2017 | 10:00 am CST – 11:00 am CST
Calling All New Members!
Join Hayley Flamm, membership chair, for a New Member Orientation on September 19th! This webinar will provide a brief overview of APMP International and the APMP Greater Midwest Chapter, and will highlight industry resources, membership benefits, helpful contacts, and answers to some of the most common questions we receive. We will then open the floor for any and all questions you have regarding your membership, its benefits, and ways you can get involved. Not a new member? We’d still love to have you join! There will be takeaways for all members, regardless of when you joined.

Can’t make September 19th? Don’t worry – we are hosting these webinars throughout the year. Look for more communication on additional sessions in the near future!

Professional Development Program Challenge Chats:

September 13, 2017 | 10:00 am CST – 11:00 am CST
Let’s face it. We all know the proposal world can be chaotic. Long hours, juggling multiple deadlines, working with SMEs who want nothing to do with our proposals...but, we still manage to survive! Please join us at the next APMP GMC Challenge Chat to hear from proposal professionals who have mastered the crazy. Learn tips and tricks for staying organized, motivated, and always on your A-game. Please submit your questions related to this topic ahead of time. Our panelists will be sure to answer them during the chat!

The APMP Greater Midwest Chapter is more than 500 members strong as we roll into the last quarter of 2017. We’re excited for your participation at our Fifth Annual Fall Symposium in Chicago and look forward to continuing our Chapter’s programs and special events in 2018.

To keep the momentum going, it’s that time of year to recruit members for both our 2018 Board of Directors and Events Committee.

The time commitment is typically less than a few hours per month and does not require travel as most everything is handled virtually. The only in-person preference is to attend some of our regional events (i.e., symposium and/or networking events), however, that is not required. In addition, participation on a local APMP Chapter Board counts as 15 CEUs towards maintaining your accreditation status!

The 2018 Board of Directors opportunities include:

• Vice Chair
• Treasurer
• Secretary
• Membership Chair
• Events Chair
• Communications Chair
• Professional Development/Mentorship Chair
• Publications Chair
• Webmaster

Open positions are available on the Events Committee, which is a fun way to become more involved with the Chapter and help support the Events Chair with our activities.

Detailed roles/responsibilities for each position are included here.

Please email your specific area of interest including your name, company, title, location, and a short biography to Bette Sturino (2017 Vice Chair) at bette.sturino@bmo.com.

Nominations will close on Wednesday, November 1 (self-nominations are encouraged). We will contact each of you individually shortly thereafter to finalize the nominee list. Board Elections will occur between November 10-17. The newly elected members will be invited to the December board meeting (virtually) with the new term beginning on January 1, 2018.

If you are interested in getting involved in our chapter but aren’t sure how, please contact Bette Sturino or any current board member.
Read a good book lately that applies to your role in business or proposal development?

If you answered YES, please consider sending us a summary and/or review to include in our Off the Shelf segment.

We’d love to hear about what our members are reading and add a few great books to our shelves as well!
